Local Area

Pillars House in Constitution Street is an imposing late Victorian, early Edwardian building. It is only a five minute walk away from the popular bars, bistros, restaurants and pubs of The Shore in Leith, while a five minute bus journey in the opposite direction will take you to the heart of the city centre.

The apartment is in an ideal location. You only need to walk five minutes to reach the distinctive area of The Shore, where you'll find some of the best bars, bistros and pubs in Edinburgh. This area is also home to two of Scotland's most famous Michelin-starred restaurants - Martin Wishart and The Kitchin.

The Royal Yacht Britannia and the Ocean Terminal shopping centre are also in the heart of Leith and are popular tourist destinations.

A five minute bus journey along Leith Walk will take you straight to the city centre, where you can shop, eat, drink and sight-see (or whatever floats your boat) to your heart's content.

Lounge

This apartment has recently been extensively refurbished.

The imposing entrance hall has a marble floor and grand staircase.

The livingroom is truly jaw-dropping, with original wooden panelling, high ceilings, ornate cornices and sash-and-case windows. The interior design is light and elegant, with chandeliers, leather couches, a traditional rug and a stunning rococo mirror.

Bedrooms

There are three charming bedrooms - two doubles and a single/twin(by arrangement) - each featuring elegant and comfortable beds and classic white bedlinen. Cream walls and chandeliers create an elegant, sophisticated and restful environment.

Bathrooms

The bathroom design is inspired by the fin de siècle period. The one nod to contemporary design is the beautiful blue glass splashback round the bath. There is a vintage sink and toilet, and tongue-and-groove panelling.

The shower room has a mirrored wall, artisan tiles and a power shower.

Kitchen

The large, stylish kitchen has fitted units and has been completely kitted out with brand new, modern appliances and utensils. It has a distinctive scrubbed wooden table that can seat at least six comfortably.

Parking

There is 2 free parking spaces for the apartment.
